

What is all the excitement about Wood Badge?

Lord Baden Powell believed in trained leaders and embarked on a journey that would inspire the world. Wood Badge is more than another training. This is a training that Fortune 500 companies provide to their management team. Why?

Wood Badge training put its participants in the position of the youth we serve, to see the Scouting program through their eyes. As adults, we are challenged to push our limits and grow into better Scouters, giving all youth an example of what we expect them to experience in the Scouting program. It is an investment in yourself, and the youth we serve in the Scouting movement.

Wood Badge is also about learning about yourself and learning how to challenge yourself. This is done with the help of your patrol and Wood Badge leadership. It challenges you to think outside the box to do more. This is not just a training that you can use within Scouting, but it is a life-changing training that will have you learning how to overcome challenges in scouting and in life.
